

What is Choose to Move?

Choose to Move is a free and flexible program that provides participants with motivation and support to become more physically active and socially connected. Choose to Move can help participants integrate activity into their daily routine, meet new friends, and make a positive change to their lifestyle. Choose to Move can support older adults to become active, regardless of ability.

In this 3-month program, participants work with a trained activity coach to develop a personalized physical activity plan to meet their health goals. Participants choose activities that they will enjoy and are able to do. Participants will receive ongoing support from their activity coach and group members to help keep them accountable to their plan. They will share successes and challenges and learn new ways to live healthier, more active lives with a group of 8-15 participants.

Choose to Move is NOT a regular fitness program – participants do not meet to exercise together.

Choose to Move is NOT a structured personal training program, but it provides participants with motivation and resources to build more physical activity into their daily routine.

See some Choose to Move participants in action here. Choose to Move is an initiative of the Active Aging Society and was developed by the Active Aging Research Team at UBC.

What support do participants receive?

Choose to Move participants will receive one-on-one and group support over 3-months, including:

A one-on-one consultation (30-minutes) with the activity coach. The consultation helps participants set health-related goals and develop a physical activity action plan that fits their routine and suits their interests, goals, abilities, and resources.

Group meetings (8 x 1-hour) where participants connect with others in their group in both small and large group formats to share experiences, encourage and motivate each other. Participants learn about various health topics (e.g., falls prevention, stress management, nutrition) and resources available in their communities. Activity coaches lead short movement breaks throughout the meetings to give participants an opportunity to move together.

Suggested schedule:

Week	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12

Activity coaches host an information session 1-2 weeks before the program starts to help participants decide if Choose to Move is right for them. Each participant is also screened for eligibility (e.g., not regularly active and an older adult).

Who are activity coaches?

Activity coaches have varied backgrounds. All activity coaches have experience working with older adults and are aware of supports and services available in their community. A fitness background is not required, but is an asset. Organizations can have existing staff trained or hire for the position.

What support do organizations receive?

The Choose to Move support team at the Active Aging Society works with organizations to understand how Choose to Move might fit and complement existing programming and activities. Organizations who offer Choose to Move receive funding to cover delivery costs.

Organizations can adapt Choose to Move to meet the needs of their community.
